MOFUSSIL AND RAILWAY DIRECTORY.

AHMEDABAD.

Ahmedabad is the principal city of the district and headquarters of Gujarat, Northern Division of the Bombay Presidency. It is also a military station. It ranks first amongst the cities of Gujarat and is one of the most ancient, historical, picturesque and artistic cities in the Bombay Presidency. King Ahmedshah of Gujarat founded this city in the year 1413 A.D. and hence it is named Ahmedabad. It stands on the raised left bank of the Rivers Sabarmati, about 173 ft. above the mean sea level. It has ancient walls stretching practically all round the city, but as it has recently developed even beyond the city walls, these walls are being demolished at certain places and it is under contemplation of the Municipality to demolish the city walls by a scheme known as the City Wall Improvement Scheme. These walls enclose an area of more than two square miles and are from 15 to 20 feet in height with 14 gates and at almost every 50 yards a bastion and a tower. In the early days of its prosperity it is said to have contained a population of about nine lakhs of souls, and so great was its wealth that some of the merchants and traders were believed to have possessed fortunes of not less than a million sterling. During the disorders in the latter part of the 18th century it suffered severely and in 1881, when it came under the British rule, it was greatly depopulated and appeared like a melancholy wreck. But on peace being established the trade and commerce of the city soon developed and now it has undergone a marked revival, especially since the development of the textile industry. There are about 153 cotton mills and factories in the city. Its population at the census of 1931 numbered 3,86,557. It has become an important railway junction and has refreshment rooms, with sleeping accommodation at the station.

Ahmedabad is rich in monuments of great architectural merit. There are many places worth seeing, viz., Kankaria tank, with Nagina Vadi in the centre of the tank founded by King Kutubshah; Sarkhej Mosque; Jumme Masjid; the three historic gates; Mosque of King Ahmedshah and his wife (Begum) situated in Manekchowk, the heart of the city; Mosque of Makarba Shah Alam's and Queen Seekari's mosque; Nar Narayan Devy's temple of the Swaminarayan Sect founded by Shree Shahjanand Swami; Ellis' Bridge; Queen Victoria's Garden and Madhav Bagh; Hatihbha's Vadi, etc.

There are two good hotels known as Grand Hotel and Bombay Hotel which provide both boarding and lodging to those living in Western style. There are several lodges and hotels for Hindus and Mahomedans.

There are several clubs, the leading club open to all classes of men and women being the Gujarat Club situated just behind the District and Sessions Court buildings. It is a social club with Sheth Ambalal Sarabhai, a prominent mill agent as its president. There are special clubs for Europeans and Parsees known as European and Parsi Gymkhanas. There is also the Reform Club and special clubs known as the Rajnagar Club, and Merchants' Club. There are also recreation clubs like the Hindu Gymkhana, Railwaymen's Institute, Postal Union, Baronet Gymkhana and others. These clubs generally provide a meeting place and also provide for games, etc.

MILLS WITH SPINDLES AND LOOMS

INCLUDING AGENTS' NAMES.

There is an association called the Ahmedabad Mill Owners' Association at Lal Darwaja and it consists of mills and factories within and without the limits of Ahmedabad. There are some mills in Ahmedabad which are not in the Association. Seth Sakarlal Balabhai, M.L.A., is the President of the Association. To avoid labour troubles there is a permanent Board of arbitration consisting of Mr. M. K. Gandhi (representing Labour Union) and Sheth Chimanlal Girdhardas Parekh (representing the Millowners' Association) and in case of difference of opinion between this board a Sur Punch is selected and his decision as well as the Board's decisions are binding on both the Association and Union, and by this mutual arrangement harmonious relations are being maintained between the Employers and the Employees. Mr. B. L. Umarwadia, B.A., LL.B., is the Secretary of the Association.

AHMEDNAGAR.

Ahmednagar, an important district in the Bombay Deccan, embraces an area of 6,623 square miles and a population of 945,012 souls. To the North-West and North lies Nasik District. On the North-East the line of the Godavari River separates Ahmednagar from the dominions of the Nizam. On the South-East and South-West lie the district of Sholapur and Poona. Further North the District stretches westwards until it touches Thana. The principal geographical feature of the District is the chain of the Sahyadri hills, the chief river—the Godavari. The bulk of the population belongs to the Maratha race, who are generally cultivators and artificers; but the soil is poor and the District liable to famine. Ahmednagar, the headquarters of the District, figured prominently in the Duke of Wellington's Indian campaigns. The town itself is unattractive, but there is a fine fort, half a mile to the East of the City. Ahmednagar is a station on the Dhond-Mannad line of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway. There is a good travellers' bungalow.

BROACH.

Broach Sub-Division is one of the richest and most fertile sub-divisions in the districts of the Bombay Presidency, bounded on the north by the River Mahi, on the east and south-east by the Native States of Baroda and Rajpipla, on the south by the River Kim, and on the west by the Gulf of Cambay. It embraces an area of 1,467 square miles and a population of 334,170. The sub-division forms an alluvial plain, chiefly of black cotton soil, highly fertile and well cultivated, producing the famous Broach Cotton, the best grown in India. Broach, the headquarters of the District, situated on the banks of the Narbada, is one of the oldest seaports in Western India. Formerly the seat of a great and flourishing trade, it has been largely eclipsed by the growth of Bombay, and the weaving industry also has declined to an appreciable degree. Broach is a station on the Bombay, Baroda & Central India Railway. There is a fair, dharamshala and a P.W.D. Inspection Bungalow. The new Narmada Bridge has been recently constructed by the B. B. & C. I. Railway at huge cost. It is a monumental structure of engineering. There are four cotton spinning and weaving mills in the city and several cotton ginning and pressing factories all over the district.

HYDERABAD STATE.

The State of Hyderabad and Berar occupies a well defined and distinct position, located about the centre of the Indian Peninsula and comprising a low plateau with an average height of 1,250 ft. above sea level. This is the largest Indian State in area, population and revenue, and from the point of view of population is far bigger than Egypt, Iraq or Afghanistan. The area is 100,465 square miles (Berar 17,767 square miles), and the population 17,877,986 (Berar 3,441,838). It is divided into two large administrative circles, the Teligana and the Mahrathwara, corresponding to the natural divisions of the north and the west with its trappean rocks, and the granite and limestone region of the south and the east. The river systems of the Godavari and the Krishna control the waters of the Dominions, while the Tungabhadra forms the southern boundary. There are flat topped hills dispersed widely, and forest areas are confined to the districts of Warangal, Karimnagar and Adilabad, and the Amrabad Taluqa of the Mahboobnagar district. The climate is equable practically all over the State, and the scenery varied and pleasant.

The victory in the Great War won for the faithful ally of the British Government the special title of "His Exalted Highness," and the 1936 Agreement brought the new distinction of "His Highness the Prince of Berar" to the heir-apparent of the State.

By the 1936 Agreement, Berar is administered as a part of the Province of the Central Provinces and Berar, full sovereign rights of His Exalted Highness the Nizam being recognised, and Rs. 25 lakhs being paid as rent to the State coffers as before.

Many places of beauty and of historic interest are scattered all over the dominions. In the very heart of the metropolis a magnificent edifice, called Char Minar, because of its four minarets, stands at the junction of four main roads. It was built in A.D. 1591 by Muhammed Quli Qutub Shah.

The well-known fortress of Golconda, popularly associated with the diamonds of the Krishna Valley, is situated at a distance of six miles from the City of Hyderabad and commands a beautiful view of the surrounding country. It has an elevation of 2,000 ft. above sea level, being built on a hill. Within the walls of the fort, scattered in all directions, are a number of old buildings, mosques and temples of historical interest. Of all the mountain fortresses, Golconda has the most impressive structure, and contains many positions which were considered impregnable in its days of glory.

The Ellora caves are situated at a distance of 13 miles from Aurangabad. They contain some of the largest and most elaborately carved specimens of Buddhist, Brahmanic, and Jain styles of cave architecture. There are 30 large caves carved out of living rock. They stretch over a distance of two miles and represent a period of 1,000 years. The three systems have been arranged side by side in almost chronological order. The interior walls are richly carved with mythological designs representing many well-known stories and characters. By far the most important of these rock-hewn temples is the great excavation known as the temple of Kailasa in which the whole Hindu pantheon is cut in a perpendicular rock.

About 52 miles north-east of Aurangabad are situated the famous Buddhist caves of Ajanta. These caves vary in height from 35 feet to 100 feet. They are 32 in all, 29 of which belong exclusively to the Buddhist religion, while the remaining three are chaitya halls or places of worship. No trace of Brahmanical symbols is to be found in any of these caves. They display, in addition to colossal specimens of Buddhist sculpture, some of the most brilliant scenic paintings of the period.

The thousand-pillared temple at Hanamkonda which has weathered the storms of eight centuries, the temples of Tuljapur and Ambajogi, and the Sikh Gurdwara at Nanded, are pre-eminent in a multitude of Hindu Temples scattered throughout the State, either for their artistic beauties or historic associations.

Of the population of 14,500,000 of Hyderabad about one and a half million are town-dwellers and the rest live in villages. Agriculture forms the main occupation of the people, who live either by tilling the soil or by following some allied occupation. The land is generally fertile with an average rainfall of 30 ins. Among other crops the State produces chiefly rice, wheat, and many varieties of food grains. There is a large area under cotton cultivation, and the castor seed production yields a large proportion of the world's output.

Hyderabad is rich in agricultural and mineral wealth. Of the latter coal forms by far the most important item. At present coal mines are being worked by three companies at Singareni, Tandur and Sasti and a fourth is soon to be opened.

H.E.H. the Nizam's State Railway with 1,400 miles of railway line and 4,000 miles of road transport is by far the largest industry in the State. Apart from being a major industry itself, it forms the basis of all other industries. It is fully equipped and with its progressive outlook is ever ready to provide facilities for the development of industries in the State.

Electricity for the cities of Hyderabad and Secunderabad and their environs is supplied at the present time by Hussain Sagar Power Station in Hyderabad. This is under the direct management of the Electricity Department of H.E.H. the Nizam's Government. The present capacity of the station stands at approximately 10,000 kilowatts, but it was designed for an ultimate capacity of 20,000 kilowatts. Considerable advance has been made in recent years with respect to street lighting and domestic consumption, while the adequacy of Hyderabad's water-supply has been greatly enhanced by the application of electricity for pumping water.

A number of large and small scale industries flourish in various parts of the State. Notable amongst these are Cotton Mills, Cement Manufacture, Ginning and Pressing Mills, Button Manufacture, etc. The State is also well-known for the fine workmanship of its Bidri ware, Warangal Carpets, Karimnagar Silver Work, Nirmal Toy Industry, the Gold Lace Work of Paithan and the Himroo weaving of Aurangabad.

After two centuries of benevolent rule by the Asafia Dynasty, the present ruler, Nawab Sir Mir Osman Ali Khan Bahadur, G.C.S.I., G.C.B., succeeded his father, Nawab Sir Mir Mahboob Ali Khan Bahadur, in 1911, and in 1938, the Silver Jubilee celebrations of His Exalted Highness's reign were held all over the State by his loyal and grateful subjects. Modern Hyderabad, as at present and as planned for further progress, is entirely the product of His Exalted Highness's deep love of his subjects and genius for administration and statesmanship. The 1919 Constitution, promulgated by His Exalted Highness after personal touch with governmental work for several years and after the victorious termination of the Great War, forms the basis of the present administrative arrangements. There is an executive council with a president, with portfolios distributed among them, and with powers distinctly defined as among individual members.

There is a legislative council comprising 30 members, of whom eight are non-officials. There is also a judiciary, completely separated from the executive, and presided over by a High Court with a special charter, and a judicial committee working as the final Appellate Court. Urdu is the official language of the Court and the Government, and traditional methods of Moghul administration have been maintained intact, modified by the adaptation of modern conceptions and practices in other countries.

The State maintains a Regular Force on lines similar to the Army in India, divided into A, B and C class units, out of which the two former have been supplied with modern rifles and equipment. The Horse Artillery Battery is armed with 18 pounder guns, and C class units with 410 Smooth Bore Muskets.

The State has a University with six Arts Colleges including one for Women and colleges for Engineering, Medicine, Law and Teaching. It has also an Honours College affiliated to the Madras University, a College for Jagirdars and a College of Physical Education. There are also a Central Cottage Industries Institute, a Central Technical Institute and an Observatory. The total number of High Schools in the State is 56.

The Present Ruler of the State is His Exalted Highness, RUSTOM-I-DOWRAN, ARASTU-I-ZAMAN, LT. GENERAL, MUZAFFARUL MULK, WAL-MANALIK, NAWAB SIR MIR OSMAN ALI KHAN BAHADUR, FATEH JUNG SIPAH, SALAR Faithful Ally of the British Government; NIZAMUD-DOULA, NIZAMUL MULK ASAF JAH, G.C.S.I., G.B.E., Nizam of Hyderabad and Berar.

OSMANIA UNIVERSITY.

The Osmania University, established by Charter in 1918, is the first attempt in India to impart university education through the vernacular, English being a compulsory second language. For over half a century, higher education in the State was controlled by the Madras University, but the results were so discouraging that in 1917 the Right Honourable Sir Akbar Hydari, Kt., F.C., B.A., LL.D., (Nawab Hyder Nawaz Jung Bahadur), then Secretary to His Exalted Highness's Government in the Educational Department, submitted a Memorandum to His Exalted Highness in which, after surveying the existing conditions and discussing the disadvantages of imparting knowledge through the medium of a foreign language, he recommended the inauguration of a University which should be both an examining and a teaching body and should also undertake to compile and translate books, using Urdu as the medium of instruction and examination. The standard of compulsory English is nearly the same as in other Universities, and enables its alumni to keep in touch with the currents of thought in the English-speaking world and prevents them from being confined to the publications of the University. An important feature of the University is the Bureau of Translation with a large staff of qualified translators. The work attempted by the Bureau embraces the whole range of University studies including History, Philosophy, Economics, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Botany, Zoology, Pedagogics, Law, Medicine and Engineering. It has published nearly 400 books on these subjects.

Faculties.—The University is of the unitary teaching type, providing instruction in all subjects of University study. The Faculties of Theology, Arts, Science, Law and Engineering are located in the University area at Adikmet, while the Medical and Training Colleges still remain in the City owing to the absence of the necessary facilities at Adikmet. The Women's College which has Intermediate, B.A. and B.Sc., M.A. and M.Sc. Classes is also located in the City. The University has at present Intermediate Classes also and there are four Intermediate Colleges at Aurangabad, Warangal, Gulburga and in the City of Hyderabad, but His Exalted Highness's Government have under consideration a scheme of educational reorganisation, under which the University course for the B.A. degree will be of three years. The total number of students is nearly 1,800 and the University has an annual budget of over 20 lacs of rupees.

University Buildings.—The new buildings of the University are being constructed near Adikmet, a suburb of the City at an estimated cost of about a crore and a half. The Arts building which will accommodate classes in subjects under the Faculty of Arts is nearing completion. Two double storied hostels accommodating nearly three hundred and twenty-five students with a separate dining hall and kitchen are ready. Among the proposed buildings on which work has not been started as yet are the Senate House, the Library, the Museum, the Co-operative Hall and the Science, Training, Law, Agricultural and Engineering Colleges, a Stadium, Swimming Pool and Professors' quarters. As these buildings will take some time to be built, temporary buildings of a semi-permanent nature have been constructed.

JUNAGADH STATE.

A First Class State under the Western India States Agency, and lying in the south-western portion of the Kathiawar Peninsula between 24°-44' and 21°-53' north latitude; 70° and 72° east longitude with the Halar Division of the Province as its northern boundary and Gohilwad Prant to its east. It is bounded on the south and west by the Arabian Sea.

The State is divided into 12 Mahals. It has 16 ports, principal ones being Verawal, Mangrol and Nawabandar. The principal rivers in the State are the Bhadar, Uben, Ozat, Hiran, Saraswati, Machhundri, Singaoda, Meghal, Vrajmi, Raval and Sabli.

The capital town of Junagadh, which is one of the most picturesque towns in India, is situated on the slope of the Girnar and the Datar Hills, while in antiquity and historical interest it yields to none. The Uparkot or old Citadel contains interesting Buddhist caves and the whole of the City and neighbourhood is honeycombed with caves of their remains. There are a number of fine modern buildings in the town. The famous Asoka inscription of the Buddhist time carved out on a big bolster of black granite stone is housed at the foot of the Girnar Hill, which is sacred to the Jains, the Shivaites, the Vaishnavites and other Hindus. To the south-east of the Girnar Hill lies the extensive forest of the Gir, comprising 494 square miles, 823 acres and 10 gunthas. It supplies timber and other natural products to the residents of the State and the neighbouring districts and is unique as the last refuge of the Indian lion.

The area of the State is 3,337 square miles and the average revenue nearly one crore. The population according to the census of 1931 was 5,45,152, of which 4,33,125 were Hindus, 1,04,964 Mahomedans, 6,853 Jains, 150 Christians, 48 Parsis and 12 other castes.

Until 1472 when it was conquered by Sultan Mahomed Begada of Ahmedabad, Junagadh was a Rajput State ruled by Chiefs of the Chuda Sama tribe. During the reign of the Emperor Akbar it became a dependency of Delhi under the immediate authority of the Moghul Viceroy of Gujarat. About 1735, when the representative of the Moghuls had lost his authority in Gujarat, Sherkhan Babi, the ancestor of the present Babi Ruler, expelled the Moghul Governor, and established his own rule. The ruler of Junagadh first entered into engagements with the British Government in 1807.

The principal products of the State are cotton, bajri, juwar, sesamum, wheat, rice, sugarcane, cereals, grass, timber, stone, castor-seed, fish, country tobacco, groundnuts, cocoanuts, bamboos, etc., while the chief manufactures are ghee, molasses, sugarcandy, copper and brassware, dyed cloth, gold and silver embroidery, pottery, hardware, leather, bamboo furniture, etc.

The State pays a tribute of Rs. 28,394 annually to the Paramount Power and a Peshkashi of Rs. 37,210 to His Highness the Gaekwar; on the other hand, the State receives a tribute styled Zortalbi, amounting to Rs. 92,421-8-0, from no fewer than 134 States and Talukas, a relic of the days of Mahomedan supremacy. The State has its own Forces consisting of the State Lancers and the Mahabat Khanji Infantry, the sanctioned strength of the former being 173 and the latter 219, inclusive of the Bag-pipe Band.

The Chief of Junagadh bears the title of Nawab. The present Nawab is Captain His Highness Sir Mahabat Khan III, G.C.I.E., K.C.S.I., and is the ninth in succession and seventh in descent from His Highness Bahadurkhanji I, the founder of the Babi Family of Junagadh in 1735 A.D. His Highness the Nawab Saheb was born on 2nd August 1900 and succeeded to the Gadi in 1911, visited England in 1913-14, received his education at the Mayo College, Ajmer, and has been invested with full powers since March 1920. His Highness the Nawab Saheb is the Ruler of the premier State in Kathiawar, ranks first amongst the Chiefs of Kathiawar, exercising plenary powers, and enjoys a personal salute of 15 guns, the permanent salute being 15 guns within and 13 guns outside Junagadh territory. KANARA (NORTH).

A District in the Bombay Presidency in the West Karnatic. It is bounded on the north by Belgaum District; on the east by Dharwar District and Mysore, on the south by South Kanara; and on the west by the Arabian Sea and Goa. The Sahyadri Range of the Western Ghats runs through the District from north to south, dividing it into two parts—the uplands and the lowlands. Except on the coast and the banks of the streams and in the more open glade, the whole is one broad expanse of woodland and forests. The forests give its character to the District. They flourish both below and above the Sahyadri Hills, and produce large quantities of timber, chiefly in teak. Karwar, the headquarters of the District, possesses a fine harbour.

KARACHI.

Karachi, like the other great seaports of India—Bombay, Calcutta and Madras—may be regarded as almost a creation of British rule. Before it came into British possession in 1842, it was an insignificant town with a small coasting trade. Since the introduction of settled administration, splendid harbour works have been carried out, the town has been linked with the Indian railway system by a series of important trunk lines, and it has become the seat of a large and flourishing commerce. At great expenditure the difficult, though conveniently situated, harbour has been so improved that vessels of large tonnage can lie alongside the deep water berths in perfect security, and Karachi is now the principal outlet for the extensive grain trade of the Punjab, besides being the seat of a considerable import traffic. Karachi is an important air port and military station. The climate, owing to the prevalence of sea-breezes during eight months of the year, has a better reputation for healthiness than any other in Sind. The low situation of the city and its neighbourhood to the marshland render the atmosphere both moist and warm, but the heat during the hottest months cannot compare with that experienced in the interior. In 1936 Sind became a separate province, with a Governor and his staff, a Legislative Assembly and a full Secretariat, with their Headquarters in the city of Karachi. The present population exceeds 300,000. There are several hotels near the station.

KHANDALLA.

Khandalla is situated on the G. I. P. Railway 78 miles from Bombay at the top of the Bhore Ghats at an elevation of about 2,000 feet above M.S.L. It is noted primarily as a health resort, and for its agreeable and bracing climate throughout the year. The railway station is easily accessible from all the bungalows, hotels, sanatoria, etc. Khandalla is favoured by many who desire quiet week-ends away from the noise and bustle of city life. Good Hotels are available such as the Khandalla Hotel and the Empress Hotel. The former has an extensive European clientele, and is equipped with a swimming pool; while the latter is patronised largely by Parsis. Amongst the more important institutions in the station are the St. Peter's School and All Saints' Nursery, the Parsi Dharamsala, (built by Sir Jamshedji Jeejeebhoy Kt.), the Marzban Sanitarium for Parsis, separate Khoja and Hindu Sanatoria, the retreat for the professors of the St. Xavier's College of Bombay, the Charitable Dispensary and Hospital built by the late Mr. N. N. Wadia. Several private bungalows are also available for seasonal lease. Of local interest are the Tata Electric Supply Company's Reservoir, called the Forbay Dam, Byramjee's Point, the Duke's Nose, Tiger's Leap and other vantage points which provide magnificent and beautiful views of the surrounding country. At some distance, in a locality called Kune, is the Mission House run by the Jesuit Fathers in which the aboriginal natives, mostly Kathodis are taught carpet and dhurree making, the manufacture of cheese, butter, etc. The town is electrically lit and possesses an adequate water supply brought from the Municipal Dam in Tungarli hills. The station is well worth a visit.

KHANDESH (EAST).

This is the easternmost district of the Bombay Presidency. It was formed out of the 11 eastern Talukas of the old District of Khandesh on 15th November 1906. These Talukas are Chalisgaon, Amalner, Parola, Chopda, Erandol, Pachora (with Bhadgaon Mahal), Jamner, Jalgaon, Yaval, Raver, Bhusawal (with Edlabad Mahal).

This District is bounded on the north by the Satpura mountains and Indore State, on the east by Nimar and Berar, on the south by His Exalted Highness the Nizam's Dominions and on the west by Nasik and West Khandesh Districts. The District of Khandesh is not part of the Deccan, but is the lower part of the basin of the Tapti, and the whole of the basins of the Girna and its affluents. East Khandesh comprises the eastern portion of these basins and is entirely watered by these two rivers and their affluents. The District has natural boundaries to the north and south, viz., the Satpura mountains on the north and the Satmala or Ajanta range on the south. Besides these, there are various smaller irregular ranges in the District. In the valley between these, and more especially in the valley of the Tapti proper, the District presents an extraordinarily fertile appearance. In this respect it differs widely from the Deccan. The roads are bordered with fine trees and there are several mango groves around most villages.

The Satpura mountains in the north consist of difficult uninhabited country which, however, produces excellent bamboos and grass, and timber suitable to the needs of the local population.

Irrigation is very little practised in the District. The rainfall is usually both general and regular, which fact in itself discourages irrigation. The District probably grows more cotton for its size than any other in India and contains 5 spinning and weaving factories besides 140 ginning and pressing mills. The chief export is, of course, cotton; minor exports, gram, linseed, sesamum and groundnut.

The area of the District is 4,551 square miles and its population 1,206,035.

Jalgaon is the capital of the District and is favourably situated at the junction of the G. I. P. and T. V. Railways, which between them traverse the whole length and most of the breadth of the District. The Imperial Bank of India has a branch at Jalgaon.

TALUKAS.—Chopda, Bhusawal, Yaval, Amalner, Jamner, Pachora, Raver, Chalisgaon, Erandol, Jalgaon and Parola.

MAHALS.—Edlabad and Bhadgaon.

KOLHAPUR.

Kolhapur is the premier State in the Bombay Presidency. It is bounded on the north by the river Warna, which separates it from the British District of Satara, on the north-east by the river Krishna, on the east and south by District of Belgaum and on the west by the Sahyadri mountains which divide it from the Sawantwadi State on the south-west, and Ratnagiri on the west. The State is divided into 7 Talukas, and 3 Mahals. Area 3,217 square miles, population 957,137, of which 866,648 are Hindus.

Kolhapur became a separate principality in 1730 by a Treaty of Partition between Shahu of Satara and Sambhaji of Kolhapur, both being grandsons of Shivaji, the Founder of the Mahratta Empire, through his two sons, Sambhaji and Rajaram. Sambhaji died in 1760 and was succeeded by his adopted son Shivaji, who ruled until the year 1812. Shivaji had to fight many battles with Patwardhans who were then the Jahagirdars of the Peshwas. Through the intervention of Mountstuart Elphinstone, under the Treaty of 1812, the disputes between Kolhapur and the Peshwa came to an end. By this Treaty, the Talukas of Chikodi and Manoli, the bone of contention between Kolhapur and the Peshwa, were ceded to the Peshwa. On the annexation of the Peshwa's kingdom in 1818, these Talukas were given back in full sovereignty to Sambhaji alias Abasaheb Maharaj under a Sanad issued by General Sir Thomas Munroe in appreciation of his support to the cause of the Company's Government. In the prime of youth, Abasaheb Maharaj was murdered in 1821 and was succeeded by his brother Shahaji alias Buvasaheb Maharaj. Owing to his acts of aggression, the British Government had to intervene in 1826 and 1827, and by the Treaty of 1827, Buvasaheb had to give back the Talukas of Chikodi and Manoli to the British Government. Buvasaheb died in 1838 and as his sons Shivaji alias Babasaheb and Shahu alias Chimsaheb were minors, Diwansaheb Maharaj, wife of Abasaheb Maharaj and aunt of the young Maharaja, administered the affairs of Kolhapur till 1844. As the administration was found most unsatisfactory, the Government of Bombay appointed Rao Bahadur Daji Krishna Pandit as Principal Karbhari. As he made certain very drastic changes in the administration, the Gadkaris of Samangad, Bhudargad and other forts rose in rebellion and the British Government had to quell the disturbance with the help of their Military Force at the cost of the State. The Government thereupon appointed Major D. C. Graham as Political Superintendent who administered the State with the help of Daji Pandit as Principal Karbhari. The administration of the State was handed over to Babasaheb Maharaj in 1862 after he had signed the Agreement of that year. On his death in 1866, he was succeeded by his adopted son, Rajaram Maharaj, a promising young prince, who died at Florence in 1870. Shivaji IV was then adopted; but as he was found to be insane, the management of the State, which was taken over by the Political Agent after the demise of Babasaheb Maharaj in 1866 owing to the minority of the Maharajas, was handed over in 1882 to the Regency in Council presided over by Meherban Abasaheb, the Chief of Kagal Senior. On the death of Shivaji at Ahmednagar in 1883, the late lamented Shri Shahu Maharaj, son of the Regent Abasaheb, the Chief of Kagal Senior and son of Princess Balabai, sister of His Highness Babasaheb Maharaj, was adopted in 1884. He was installed on the Gadi by His Excellency Lord Harris, the then Governor of Bombay, in 1894. He was a powerful personality and made many reforms in the State. He was a staunch supporter of the backward classes in the Deccan and tried his best to elevate them. He enhanced the prestige of the State which was at its lowest ebb when he assumed the reins of Government. Residuary criminal jurisdiction over the Feudatory Jahagirdars was restored to Kolhapur in 1903 by Lord Northcote. He made primary education free and compulsory in 1917.

The present Ruler, Colonel His Highness Sir Shri Rajaram Chhatrapati Maharaj, G.C.S.I., G.C.I.E., Maharaja of Kolhapur, was born on 30th July 1897 and succeeded to the Gadi on the 6th May 1922 on the demise of his father. He has had excellent education under Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Irwin and later for over 3 years in various schools in England. NASIK.

A district in the Bombay Presidency, bounded on the north by Khandesh, on the east by the Nizam's Dominions, on the south by Ahmednagar and on the west by Thana. Area 5,877 square miles, Collectorates.
Population 1,000,048 as per Census of 1931. With the exception of a few villages in the west, the whole district is situated on a table-land at an elevation of 1,300 to 2,100 feet above the sea. Nasik town, the headquarters station, is considered by Hindus to be a place of special interest and holiness. About twenty miles from its source the river Godavari, flowing eastwards through a group of small hills, turns sharply to the south, and after passing in that direction for about a mile, again swerves suddenly towards the east. On both sides of the river but chiefly upon the right or south-eastern bank, lies the town of Nasik.
Temples fringe the banks, and even the bed of the stream is dotted with temples and shrines. This part of the town is extremely picturesque especially during the pilgrim season; the other part is also attractive and remarkable for its manufactures of brass. Five miles to the south of the town are the remarkable rock temples of Pandu Lena. The climate of Nasik is cool and agreeable especially during the rains from June to October. Nasik is the headquarters of the Royal Western India Golf Club which maintains excellent links and is a favourite resort at this season. At Nasik Road are the Government Distillery, the Central Jail and the Security Press. Near Nasik town there is the Nasik Hotel, and the headquarters of the Golf Club provide accommodation for bachelor and married members. At Nasik Road a charming convalescent home is maintained through the agency of Mr. H. M. Phipson.
Talukas—Kalwan, Dindori, Niphad, Yeola, Igatpuri, Nandgaon, Nasik, Sinnar, Baglan and Malegaon. Mahals:—Chandor and Peint. Nine miles from Nasik by road is the small cantonment of Deolali.

NAWANAGAR (JAMNAGAR).

A full powered Indian State having political relation with the Government of India through the Agent to the Governor-General in the States of Western India since October 1924, lying between 21°-44' and 22°-58' north latitude and 69°-10'-30" and 71°-33'-30" east longitude on the southern shore of the Gulf of Cutch, with an area of 3,791 square miles, the largest by far in the province. It is bounded on the north by the Gulf and the Rann of Cutch; on the east by the States of Morvi, Rajkot, Dhrol and Gondal, on the south by the Sorath Division of Kathiawar and on the west by the Okha Rann and the Arabian Sea. It is mostly flat, but a little more than one-third of the Barda Hills are within its limits. Mount Venu, the highest point of the Barda Hills, is 2,057 feet above sea level. The principal rivers are the Bhadar, the Vartu, the Aji, the Und, and the Dondi. The harbours of Jodiya, Salaya and Nawanagar or Bedi and Rozi are situated within the State. Mangrove swamps line the shores of the gulf, affording large supplies for firewood and camel pasture.

The land produces both garden and dry crops. Irrigation is provided by draw-wells, by artificial tanks and by aqueducts from rivers. The principal products are grain, cotton, til and castorseed; bajra, wheat and gram are the staple food crops. Wheat is produced with and without irrigation. The only forests of any importance are those in the northern portion of the Barda Hills and the new forest in the Dalasa Hills.

Marble of different qualities is found in the Kandorna and Bhanwad Talukas. Iron occurs in the Khambhalia paragana, but owing to foreign competition it is not able to hold its own. A pearl fishery lies off the coast on the northern shores of the State. The pearls are of varying sizes but of a very beautiful colour and fine lustre. Cloth and silk, as well as gold and silver embroidery, brocade, turbans and saris are the chief manufactures. The dyeing industry which employs a considerable number of people is very flourishing. The dyes are much admired, and their excellence is traditionally attributed to the quality of the water of the Rangmati river, which flows by Nawanagar Town, along with the Nagmati river.

Jamnagar City is the capital of the State. It is 51 miles from Rajkot by railway owned by the State. It is almost entirely built of stone, and is a walled town. It shows every sign of prosperity. It is nearly four miles in circuit. The population is chiefly industrial and commercial and they produce fine silk and gold embroidery. The place is also famous for its perfumery and oils and for the Kanku powder. The climate is very pleasant and temperate throughout the year. It is particularly enjoyable being cool and bracing from November to March. The palaces of Kotha, Lakhota, Lal Bungalow, etc., are picturesque. The new Palace (Pratap Villas), Rozi Bunder, Vijarkhi Tank and Balachadi (one of the pleasantest hot weather resorts in Kathiawar) are some of the chief objects of interest. The City and the Paragana contain a population of nearly fifty-five thousand souls.

Population 409,192. Revenue nearly Rs. 94,00,000.

The State is divided into the following Mahals (territorial divisions), viz. :—

Panchkoshi, Jodiya, Paddhari, Lalpur, Atkot, Kalawad, Kandorna, Khambhalia, Bhanwad, Jodhpur, Kalyanpur, and the following sub-Mahals, viz., Wanthali, Chela, Balambha, Amran, Padana, Bhadla, Nikava, Mewasa, Salaya, Satapur, Ranpur, Wadala, Bhatia and Rawal. There are four irrigation tanks in the State, viz., Adhia, Hansthal, Vijarkhi and Keshia.

A nine-gun State in the Gohelwad Division (Kathiawar) of the Western India States Agency. Area about 300 square miles. Principal agricultural products—grain, sugarcane and cotton. Revenue about Rs. 81,12,000. The chief town, Palitana, is a station on the Bhavnagar State (Kathiawar) Railway. Palitana is justly celebrated for its Jain temples on the Shatrunjaya Hill, situated within the Palitana jurisdiction. This hill is sacred to Adinath, the first of the Jain Saints (Tirthankars). The summit, which is divided into two peaks, with the valley between partly built over by a wealthy Jain merchant, is covered with temples, amongst which the most famous are those of Adinath, Kumarpal, Vimalsha, Sampri Raja and Chawmukh. This last is the most lofty temple on the hill and can be clearly distinguished at a distance of 25 miles. Shatrunjaya is the most sacred of the five sacred hills of the Jains. Mr. Kinloch Forbes describes it as the "first of all places of pilgrimage, the bridal hall of those who would win everlasting rest." Owing to the special sanctity of Shatrunjaya, all members of the Jain faith feel it a duty to perform, if possible, at least one pilgrimage here during their life. Palitana is also noted for its breed of horses, particularly beautiful typical Kathi horses, in which its Rulers have been taking a warm and personal interest.

POONA.

Poona, the ancient seat of the Peshwas, and now the Military capital of the Deccan and also the head-quarters of the Government of Bombay from July to November, stands on the right bank of the Mutha River, 119 miles south-east from Bombay. The city proper extends along the Mutha for about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles inland; its length is about 2 miles from east to west, and its breadth about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles, the total area being about $2\frac{1}{2}$ square miles. The population according to the Census of 1931 is 250,187. Historically Poona is a city with a past, and is the scene of some of the most hard-fought triumphs of war and diplomacy in the annals of British Rule in India. North of the town is the Military cantonment, and within cantonment limits northwards to the Mutha-Mulla river and for 2 miles along the road leading to Kirkee are the houses of the greater part of the European population. Kirkee, 3 miles from Poona, the centre of the Artillery garrison, is the site of the famous battle which decided the fate of the Deccan, and 4 miles from Poona is Ganeshkhind, the handsome residence of the Governor of Bombay.

The climate of Poona, due to its altitude, is temperate all the year round, being delightfully cool and bracing between October and March, and very enjoyable during the monsoon season. The hottest months are April and May, but the heat is dry and by no means as trying as even a lower temperature is along the coast or in the plains. The air, especially in the cold months, is invigorating, and Poona may be said to possess one of the most suitable climates for Europeans in India. It is doubtless largely for this reason that has been selected as the seat of the Bombay Government during the monsoon season and the head-quarters of the Southern Command.

RATNAGIRI.

A British District in the Konkan or Southern Division of the Bombay Presidency. It is bounded on the North by the Native State of Janjira and the Kolaba District; on the East by Satara District and the Native State of Kolhapur; on the South by the Sawantwadi State and the Portuguese possessions of Goa; and on the West by the Arabian Sea. The District may be described generally as rocky and rugged. Near the coast it consists of a bare elevated plateau, intersected by numerous creeks and navigable rivers flowing between steep hills. These rivers have along their banks the chief seaports and almost all the fertile land of the District. Ten miles or so inland the country becomes more open; but advancing a little farther, it is occupied by spurs of the Sahyadri Hills. This range itself forms the continuous eastern boundary, running parallel to the coast, at distances varying from 30 to 45 miles. It varies in height from 2,000 to 3,000 feet, though some of the peaks attain an altitude of 4,000 feet. Whilst the banks of the rivers produce fine crops of rice in the rains, and of pulse in the cold weather and some of the inland valleys exhibit the utmost fertility, the soil is, as a rule, poor and barren, and supports with difficulty its dense population, a large proportion of whom migrate to Bombay in the fair season. Ratnagiri, the headquarters town, is open and faces the sea. There is no railway connection, and communication is by steamer with Bombay and by motor with Kolhapur 82 miles away. Population of the District is 13,02,527.

SATARA.

A District in the Central Division of the Bombay Presidency. It is bounded on the North by the States of Bhore and Phaltan; on the South by the River Varna, separating it from Kolhapur and Sangli States; on the East by Sholapur District and the States of the Pant Pratinidhi and the Chief of Jath; and on the West by the Sahyadri Hills, separating it from the Districts of Kolaba and Ratnagiri. Area, 4,910 square miles; population, 1,179,712. Language spoken—Marathi. From Mahabaleshwar in the north-west corner of the District, 4,717 feet above the sea, start two hill ranges of equal height and nearly at right angles to each other—one the main range of the Sahyadri running towards the south and forming the western boundaries of the Districts and the other the Mahadeo range of hills, which, going first in an easterly and then a south-easterly direction, extends towards the eastern boundary, where it sinks gradually into the plain. These hills throw out numerous spurs over the District, forming the valleys of the several streams which make up the head-waters of the Krishna, one of the largest rivers in Western India, except near Mahabaleshwar, and in the valley of the Koyna, the hills of the District are very low and have a strikingly bare and rugged aspect. The soils of the District belong to three main classes—red in the hills and black and light coloured in the plains. The black soil, especially along the valley of the Krishna and its tributaries, is very fertile, yielding two crops a year. The uncertain and scanty rainfall makes that part of the District East of the railway, most likely to suffer from failure of the crops. Satara, the headquarters town, is 10 miles from Satara Road station on the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway.

SAWANTWADI STATE.

Sawantwadi is one of the ancient Mahratta States in Western India. It is a compact territory unbroken by the lands of other States or districts and is about fifty miles long and from 10 to 30 miles broad. The State comprises an area of 930 square miles and is bounded on the north by the Malwan Sub-Division of the Ratnagiri District and is separated by the line of the Sahyadri hills, on the north-east from Kolhapur territory, and on the east and south-east, from the British District of Belgaum. To the south lie the Bicholi and Pedna sub-divisions of the Portuguese territory of Goa, and on the west and north-west the Ratnagiri sub-divisions of Vengurla and Malwan. The general aspect of the country is strikingly picturesque. The population of the Sawantwadi State is 230,589 according to the Census of 1931, out of which 219,386, i.e., 95 per cent. are Hindus, 5,030, i.e., about 2.1 per cent. Mahomedans, 6,068, i.e., 2.6 per cent. Indian Christians and the rest Jains and other Hindus. For administrative purposes, the State is divided into two Pethas viz., Kudal and Banda. The Pethas are in charge of a Kamavisdar. Both the officers are responsible to the Diwan of the State.

The State pays no tribute to the British Government. It is rich in forests of teak especially near the Sahyadri hills, blackwood, ain, kher and jambha. Near the sea the more important trees are the jackwood, mango and bhirand. The principal fruits are mangoes, plantains, citrons, limes and jack fruit. Cocosnut and cashew-nuts are very plentiful. The staple agricultural produce in the State is rice but the quantity being insufficient for the wants of the people, a good deal is imported from outside. Iron ore of fair quality is found in the neighbourhood of the Ramghat in the Sahyadri Range. The Akeri stone, a slate coloured tale-schist, extremely hard, compact and heavy is unrivalled for building purposes. The principal sources of income are (1) Land Revenue, (2) Forest and (3) Abkari. The gross revenue based on the average of the five years is Rs. 6,65,924.

The principal industries of the State consist of gold and silver embroidery work on both leather and cloth, fans, baskets and boxes of kas-kas grass ornamented with gold thread and beetle wings; lacquered toys and playing cards, and elegant drawing-room ornaments carved from the horn of the buffalo and bison.

RULER:—(Minor) His Highness Raje Bahadur Shrimant Shivram Sawant Bhonsle, Raja of Sawantwadi.

SHOLAPUR.

A District in the Deccan, Bombay Presidency, except Barsi taluka, which is surrounded by the Nizam's territory. Sholapur is bounded on the North by Ahmednagar District, on the East by the Nizam's Dominions and Akalkot State; on the South by Bijapur District and the Jath and Miraj (Senior) States; and on the West by Satara, Poona and Ahmednagar Districts, and the States of Phaltan and Aundh. The District generally is flat and undulating. Most of the surface rolls in long low uplands separated by hollows, with an occasional level. The shallow soiled uplands are suitable for pasture and the deep-soiled lowlands, under careful tillage, yield the richest crops. From time to time the District suffers severely from drought, to which its situation and the treeless surface of the country expose it. The Imperial Council of Agricultural Research has, therefore, recently opened at Mulegaon, a village about 4 miles to the east of Sholapur, a Dry Farming Research Station and experiments are being made there on the Jowar, which is the staple food of this District. A committee, consisting of both the officials as well as the non-officials, called the Village Improvement Committee, with which the District Scout Association has linked its activities, has also been established under the District Local Board Act, to render help to the cultivators and villagers in this District and to educate them in subjects closely connected with their life and profession.

Sholapur town, the headquarters of the District, is a station on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway. There is a fine old fort and a travellers' bungalow. There are also District Scout and Ambulance Headquarters.

SURAT.

A British District in Gujarat, Bombay Presidency, with an area of 1,662 square miles. It is bounded on the North by Broach District and Baroda territory, on the East by the States of Baroda, Rajpipla, Bansda and Dharampur, on the South by Thana District and the Portuguese territory of Daman, and on the West by the Arabian Sea. Surat District consists of wide, alluvial plain, stretching between the Dang Hills and the coast, from the Kim River on the North to Damanganga on the South—a distance of about 80 miles. Much of the soil is rich and very fertile, but the eastern border of the District consists of less fruitful lands. Surat, the chief town and administrative headquarters, is situated on the south bank of the Tapti River and 14 miles from the sea. During the 17th and 18th centuries Surat ranked as the chief export and import centre of India. After the assumption of the entire Government by the British in 1800, prosperity, which had deserted the town towards the end of last century, reappeared; but the steady transfer of trade to Bombay, combined with the famine in 1813 in Northern Gujarat, continued to undermine its commercial importance. Though now overshadowed by Bombay, it is still the centre of a brisk trade. It contains many interesting memorial of the days of John Company, especially the tombs of the early European residents.

THANA.

A British District in the Bombay Presidency. Area, 3,434 square miles, it is bounded on the north by the Portuguese territory of Daman and the Surat District; on the east by the Districts of Nasik, Ahmednagar and Poona; on the south by the Bombay Suburban District; and on the west by the Arabian Sea. Thana consists of a distinct strip of low land, intersected by hilly tracts rising to elevations of from 100 to 2,500 feet. Along the whole line of the Coast the soil is fertile, and the villages are exceedingly populous. In the North-East the hills are covered with wood and the valleys but partially cultivated. The villages are seldom more than scattered hamlets of huts, and the population consists mainly of uncivilised aboriginal tribes, many of whom still wander from place to place as they find water to suit their fancy. Inland the District is well watered and well wooded. Except in the North-East, where much of it rises in large plateau, the country is a series of flat low-lying rice tracts, broken by well-marked ranges of hills. A considerable trade in firewood is carried on with Bombay; the sea fisheries are productive, and there is a lucrative salt industry. The Christians of Salsette and Bassein, a very strong community, are the descendants of the converts of St. Francis Xavier. Thana, the chief town, 21 miles North of Bombay, is a station on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway. The fort, the Portuguese Cathedral, a few carved and inscribed stones, and several reservoirs are now the only signs that it was once an important city. There is a good travellers' bungalow. Bassein, on the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway, contains famous ruins of the Portuguese dominion in Salsette. For Bandra and Pali Hill, growing Suburbs of Bombay, see Bandra Street Directory.

WADHWAN.

Wadhwan State, in the Western India States Agency, lies between 71° and 72° North and 22° and 23° East with an area of 242.6 square miles. It is bounded on the north by the territory of Dhrangadhra, on the south by the territory of Chuda and Limbdi and by the Dhandhuka Taluka of Ahmedabad District, on the east by Limbdi State and on the west by Muli and Sayla territory. The country is compact, and irrigated to some extent. The climate is hot but healthy. The annual rainfall averages about 20 inches.

The soil is black or light, in about equal proportion. Cotton and the usual grains are grown. Country soap which is largely used by the people of Kathiawar and Gujarat, is the chief article of manufacture, but weaving and dyeing are also carried on and there are four Ginning Factories and two Cotton Presses. The produce of the State formerly used to be exported from the Port of Dholera, now goes by rail.

Wadhwan City is fortified and the Chief's Palace, an imposing building when seen at a distance, occupies a commanding position in the southern portion of the town. It is the main entrepot for the cotton trade of Jhalawad and contains a wealthy community of merchants. A large import trade is also carried on in grain and cotton goods.

Wadhwan State was founded in about A.D. 1630 by Rajoji, the son of Prathiraj, the eldest son of Raja Chandrasinhji of Halvad. It has acquired its modern importance from the junction of Wadhwan Branch of the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway with the Bhavnagar, Morvi and Dhrangadhra lines. The Wadhwan Civil Station, which is the headquarters of the Political Agent, Eastern Kathiawar Agency, stands on territory leased from the State.

There is a temple dedicated to the celebrated Ranok Devi, consort of Rai Khengar of Junagadh, and an old step-well called Madhavav in Wadhwan City.

The Civil Station and the City are connected by Railway as well as by a good metalled road on which there is a Motor Tramway Service.

At Dudhrej, about two miles from the Civil Station, is a flourishing temple of the Mota Panth, a sect almost exclusively consisting of Rabaris (shepherds).

The population of the State is 42,602, and Revenue Rs. 6,00,000.

Gaekwar's Baroda State Railways.

With a view to give railway facilities to every part of the Baroda State and to open up rural areas, a network of railways has been constructed throughout the Baroda territory. But as the territory of the Baroda State is not compact, there are isolated railway lines. This has naturally increased the capital invested on railway which stands at about Rs. 5½ crores to-day. The railways consist of 709 miles and include 21 miles of Broad-Gauge section worked by the B. B. & C. I. Railway, 356 miles of Narrow-Gauge and 205 miles of Metre-Gauge worked by the State through their Railway Department and a section 37 miles Metre-Gauge in the Okha District worked by the Jamnagar & Dwarka Railway. Besides this, a piece of 16 miles called Prachi-Road-Kodinar Railway in Kathiawar is under construction.

PRINCE OR PAUPER?

CLOTHES MAKE THE MAN . . .

A poorly dressed, shabby man has doors slammed in his face. . . . yet the same man, well dressed and carefully groomed, holds a passport to the most exclusive circles. Only a thoughtless businessman would court failure by employing down-at-heel salesmen. . . . yet many are the firms who send out shoddy, 'cheap' catalogues and folders!

PRINT MAKES THE BUSINESS

Well planned, well printed publicity matter escapes the waste-paper basket, the fate of cut-price printing. It reflects prestige on the firm who sends it out; it is read, kept, acted upon; it brings business! That is why progressive firms refuse to consider print estimates on price alone, preferring the invaluable quality which stamps all work designed, written and printed by
